OPT COASTS TO US CONTRACT WIN

The US's desire to protect its coastline has led to a contract for wave-power generator Ocean Power Technologies (OPT). The Department of Homeland Security wants OPT's power-buoys to power a network of acoustic sensors and communications equipment, provided by Lockheed Martin, as part of a rogue-vessel detection system. OPT's technology is already being trialled by the US Navy.

ICPIW This contract demonstrates another potential revenue stream. The shares have fallen recently, but on a long-term view represent good value. GD
